Mr. G. W. Nichols, came across a queer freak of nature last week. In a bucket of eggs that had been brought fifteen miles from the country, he heard the chirp of a chick. Taking the eggs out one by one, he finally found the one from which the noise proceeded. The shell was perfectly sound, but after being broken, the chick was taken out, and is still living. However, we do not wish to mislead the public, and will say in this connection that Mr. Nichols does not guarantee all his eggs to have live chickens in them.

Speaking of Mrs. Rivers' musical Tuesday evening of last week, the Pulaski Citizen says: "The event of the evening was the playing of Miss Hallie Fry. The other performers had all been heard in Pulaski, and while each did her part well the audience was prepared for it. But the playing of this little lady from Columbia was, to say the least of it, brilliant. She is gifted by nature with rare musical talent and this has been cultivated by most skillful teaching and careful study until at the age of fourteen she is a really remarkable pianist. Her reputation had preceded here, but the half had not been told. She gives promise of taking rank among the foremost musicians of the country."
